Clinical Data Exchange (CDX) Service

Secure. Efficient. Reliable.
Electronic Document Exchange between EMRs.

Are you tired of all the manual steps involved with exchanging documents such as scanning, faxing, printing and matching up documents to patient records? The Clinical Data Exchange Service provides a more streamlined way for healthcare teams to share documents and collaborate around patient care.

Once your clinic is subscribed to the Clinical Data Exchange Service, you will be able to send electronic documents and attachments directly from your Electronic Medical Record (EMR) to other clinical systems. When documents are received, your EMR will automatically recognize and match incoming documents to the relevant patient record and provider based on your workflows.

There is no cost to the clinic to use this network. All clinic participants will have access to dedicated virtual support throughout the enrollment process.

Fax-free and fully electronic

This is more than just another eFax solution. Your eDocuments go directly into the recipient's system which enables timely responses and processing times, while reducing manual steps & eFax subscription costs.

Streamline collaboration between health providers

By using standards-based documents, you will be able to quickly triage documents by type, respond to requests, clarify information, collaborate on care and notify practitioners of appointment status in real-time.

Automated matching and data population

Each document type will automatically be recognized and matched to the correct patient and document folder. Your EMR can even use embedded data from incoming documents to create/update patient records.

Flexible document types designed to support clinical workflows

Documents can be constructed with clinically relevant data such as labs, images and PDFs etc. Sending this documentation electronically increases legibility and reduces unnecessary manual and paper-based steps.

Reliable and secure data transmission

The Clinical Data Exchange (CDX) Service is vendor-neutral and developed based on health information exchange best practices and is fully compliant with all provincial and federal privacy legislation.
